

Synthetic Aperture Radar Interferometry: Principles and Algorithms

Paul Rosen

This lecture will introduce the basic concepts of synthetic aperture radar (SAR) imaging, the extension of the technique to interferometric imaging for estimation of topography, and surface change, and design concepts for practical interferometers. Theory of interferometry and description of practical methods of implementing interferometers and interferometric data processors will be presented.